

TITLE:

Shh, be quiet!!! My Podcast is on!!

DESCRIPTION:

Do you enjoy the thrill, adventure and suspense of a great story? We invite you to relive the emotions of the universal literature classics transformed into innovative podcast performed by our students in a radio drama style. Create your own digital radio drama with your favorite literature classic!

PURPOSE AND OBJECTIVES:

Participants will be able to hear the radio dramas done and performed by the students via podcasts, featuring their favorite classical authors, such as Cervantes, Shakespeare, Moliere, Agatha Christie and Edgar Allan Poe.

This podcast Project allows our students to develop their creativity, not only by using the technological resources at hand, such as smartphones, iPods and MacBooks, but also their oral expression through the recording of characters and their different voices with their very own intonation, rhythm, voice modulation and tone, always having in mind the dialogue written by them, and the historic and cultural weight of the characters they are bringing to life, with our students point of view. Come and experience our Project and learn how to produce your own radio drama!
